Topic: International Affairs

In News: The External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar has announced that India is expected to join the Nuclear Suppliers Group (NSG) while taming the political impediments that go against global interests.

More on the Topic:

- The 48-member NSG is an elite club of countries that deals with the trade-in nuclear technology and fissile materials besides contributing to the non-proliferation of nuclear weapons.
- NSG was formed with the objective of averting the proliferation of nuclear weapons and preventing acts of nuclear terrorism.
- It was formed in 1974 as a response to the Indian nuclear test (smiling Buddha).
- NSG consists of 48 members which include the five nuclear weapon states US, UK, France, China, and Russia.
- It is not a formal organization, and its guidelines are not binding.

Who is opposing India's Entry:

- China has been stridently opposing India's NSG bid primarily on the grounds that New Delhi is not a signatory to the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT).
- Its opposition has made India's entry into the group difficult as the NSG works on the principle of consensus.
- Other than China, countries that are opposing India's inclusion in the NSG are Turkey, South Africa, Ireland and New Zealand.
- While considering India's membership application, the NSG will also have to consider the fact that accepting this application can pose problems on the processing of applications from Pakistan and Israel, both of whom have not signed the NPT.

Why India Want to Join NSG:

- If India becomes a member, it would have better international markets for both the export and import of nuclear-related material.
- It would also facilitate access to better nuclear equipment.
- Joining the NSG will give India better access to low-cost, clean nuclear energy -- important for its economic growth.
- NSG membership would put India on a firmer footing to propose the idea of plutonium trade for its thorium programme that has been waiting in the wings.
- An early adoption of thorium technology would give India enormous energy independence and security.

- India, Pakistan and Israel have also not signed NPT.
- India refused to sign NPT because
 - (1) The NPT defines “nuclear weapons states” as those that tested devices before 1967, which means India cannot ever be one.
 - (2) No fixed timelines have been mentioned for disarmament.
 - (3) NPT is unfair treaty as nuclear weapon states have no obligation to give them up while non-nuclear states are not allowed to have them.
